cause of President Nixon's personal interest in the deals. Commissioners of the AEC only learned about the plan to supply nuclear power to the Middle East a month before the President left on his tour. One reason for the haste was that the United States felt that if it did not promise nuclear power to the Middle East, the French and Russians would. Neither France nor the Soviet Union insists on the safeguards that the United States does.

There is a French-built research reactor already operating in Israel A research reactor of similar design was built by the Russians for Egypt. Neither one has the kinds of safeguards built into American-built power plants,

The contracts signed today were provisional, meaning they depend on what kinds of safeguards the United States is able to negotiate with both countries. #### Chile Confirms Pinochet as Its 'Supreme Chief' SANTIAGO, June 26 (AP) .-

Chile's military government issued a decree last night naming Gen. Augusto Pinochet "supreme chief of the nation," It had been announced last week that the four-man military junta would reorganize the government, with Gen. Pinochet as chief executive. Yesterday's decree made it official. The decree, called a "minicoo-stitution" by legal observers, said the junta has assumed all legislative and executive powers. These powers actually have been exercised by the junta since Sept. 11, when the armed forces ousted President Salvador Allende, dissolved parliament and banned all political activities.

The naming of Gen. Pinochet as supreme chief was seen as further evidence that the armed forces do not plan any early return to an elected, civilian government. Gen. Pinochet said recently that the junta would govern at least five years "and perhaps much longer.

The decree states that Chile's judicial system will remain autonomous but with the supreme chief having the authority to appoint judges. Gen. Pinochet also is commander-in-chief of the army and thus head of Chile's most powerful military force.

Prospective Jurors Questioned

Trial of Ehrlichman, 3 Others For Ellsberg Break-In Starts

By Robert Siner

The trial of the former White House chief domestic adviser, John Ehrlichman, and three codefendants on charges relating to the September, 1971, burglary of the office of Daniel Elisberg's psychiatrist in Los Angeles opened today in federal court.

District Judge Gerhard Gesell started with a brief description of the case and immediately began questioning prospective jurors from an initial pool of 60 persons. Additional groups of jurors are available if necessary.

The judge said that the defendants are accused of conspiracy to violate the Constitution's prohibition of searches without a warrant through the break-in of the office of Dr. Lewis Fielding, a psychiatrist who had been treating Mr. Elisberg, Judge Gesell told prospective jurors that they should expect a trial of from four to six weeks. He said that the panel would be sequestered in a private college and that weekend visits by members of the jurors' families would be permitted.

Twelve jurors and six alternates are to be selected, a process that could take some time since Judge Gesell has allowed the defense 36 peremptory challenges and the prosecution 31. Using a peremptory challenge, an attorney can ask that a prospective juror be excused without stating any reason. Jurors also can be excused for cause when it is shown that some bias or some connection with the defendants, attorneys or

In talks with President Valery Giscard d'Estaing today, the shah's delegation included the secretary of state for atomic energy, Akbar Etemad. The shah today also called for a partnership between the Middle East oil states and the industrial powers of Western Europe. Iran could supply 50 percent of Western Europe's gas needs, he told a luncheon of French business leaders. He suggested that a gas pipeline could be built from Iran to Europe.

The list of possibilities, however, suggests that Congress will have to weigh the costs of peace in the years ahead. That might be, as one official noted, a lot cheaper than the costs of war in years past. Here are principal elements in that picture:

• A net increase of about $500 million in military and economic aid to the Arab nations is already pending before Congress. This was cited by Mr. Nixon on his tour as symbolic of the new atmosphere of cooperation.

· President Nixon's promise of long-term military assistance to Israel is at the moment far from being translated into dollars and cents. But the Israeli request would quadruple tha stakes-$2 billion a year conparen to a normal level of $450 million to $500 million.

· The nuclear reactors promised to Israel and E27pt are to be sold not given away, although U. S. taxpayers may wind up subsidizing them partially through the financing for the 600,000 - kilowatt piants. According to sources, each will cost an estimated $350 million, more than haif of which would be in materials and labor from those countries.

The U.S. export value would be about $150 millon each with another $26 million for the sale of a 10-year supply of fuel. If Congress does not block the sales, the projects could be financed through the Export-Import Bank which has provided partial low-interest financing for reactors sold to other nations. No decisions have been made on that yet.

· According to Pentagon sources, additional arms proposals are in the works for Lebanon and Jordan, which will be small to modest in size. The more significant question of whether the United States could become the major supplier of arms for Egypt is still unanswered, at least on the public record, although Israeli sources said they have been assured that the United States does not contemplate giving arms to Egypt or Syria.

 In four countries; the U.S. has established joint commissions or similar machinery to stimulate investment or aid projects. In Egypt, for instance, Mr. Nixon spoke optimistically of private ventures from petrochemicals to banking, exceeding $2 hillion.
A State Department official, evaluating the presidential tour of the Mideast and its accomplishments, remarked: "What you really have is a proliferation cl joint commissions. Saudi Arabia got one hefore the trip. Now everybody wants one."

Future progress on these items and others all depend, of course, on whether Israel and its Arab neighbors continue to take the road toward a permanent settlement of their dif-ferences. A special fund of $100 million, for instance, is intended for Syria, but only if Syria behaves peacefully.

And several officials pointed out that, despite the big dollar signs, the U.S. taxpayers may not bear the major burden of Middle East development. "The capital is right there in the Middle East." said a White House aide, "If you're talking about 10 or 15 billion over the years, that money is already there."

The idea is that both arms sales and economic ventures in the Arab pations could be finance ed from the accumulation of capital flowing to the oil-rich sheikhs. U.S. business would lend its technology and get a plece of the investment.

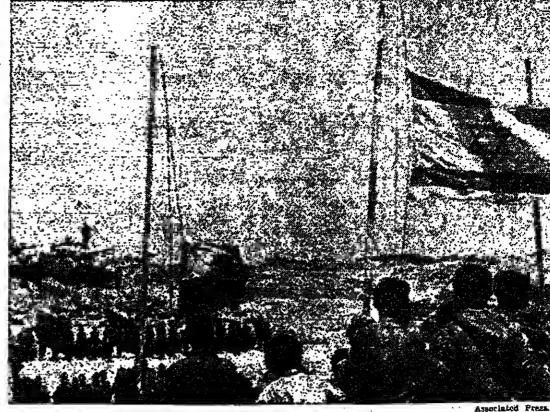

The settlement so far, however, has already raised expectations among the Middle East nations and the "even-handed" diplomacy in which the United States is to help both sides will require a delicate balancing between the adversaries.

And so, in testifying, the ofricials said nothing to Congress about any ambiguity in the agreement, nor could they say any thing about the President's High-Level Meeting

During this period of congressional testimony in Juna, 1972.

Mr. Klasinger held a high-tevel administration meeting on nuclear arms. A number of the participants asked him to formally resolve what they still considered to be an ambiguity, and he agreed to dn so.

A memorandum—in diplomatic language, an "agreed clarification"—was drafted by Mr. Kissinger's National Security Council staff and presented to Soviet officials for acceptance. For weeks, the Russians resisted, insisting that they could build the 70 additional launchers, but on July 24, Mr. Kissinger and Soylet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin finally signed the memorandum. Mr. Kissinger's aides said that its circulation was limited hecause there was some question of whether a presidential adviser (Mr. Kissinger was not yet secretary of state) and an ambassador had the power to sign such a document. Sen. Jackson's aides saw it as a cover-np.

Nothing was said to Congress about the memorandum because, as Mr. Kissinger explained this week, it merely confirmed what Congress had already been told. Almost a year later in Geneva, the American delegation to the strategic-arms talks found out about the memorandum from the Soviet delegation. On July, 24, 1973, a year after the memorandum was signed, it was distributed to the secretaries of state and defense and other senior nf-

When some Pentagon officials read it, they began to worry. One point of the memo, they be-lieved, might be interpreted in such a way that the Russians could argue that the old loophole was not closed.

The Pentagon officials asked that the loophole be closed and that was agreed to.

Somewhat later, Pentagon officials and others began to hear rumors about "a presidential pledge." They did not know the exact language of the pledge, and they were worrled because another round of arms talks with the Russians was then going on. Nitze Told Story

It was those officials who went to Sen. Jackson and the press. At the same time, Paul Nitze, the top Pentagon member of the American delegation to the arms talks, resigned and told his story to one of Sen. Jackson's sub-

To the senator, it looked like a cover-up at the last minute. But to Mr. Kissinger and his aides, all of the charges were preposterous.

-An unmistakable whilf of oil hangs in the warm, dry air-not an unpleasant scent as it mingles with the fragrance of the lusb foliage along the waterfront promenade of this Caspian Sea city.

Eaku, the capital of the Azerhaijan Republic, was once the oil center of the Soviet Union, It has since been eclipsed by the vast new oil field of Siberia, although it remains an oil-refining center and the largest port on tha Caspian Sea.

Idla derricks are scattered across the arid landscape; the search for new oil deposits in this area has reached out into the salt waters of the Caspian.

Soviet geologists report that they have drilled down more than 21,000 feet on land and 18,000 feet offshore, and intend to reach still farther down. As discoveries dwindle, gas or steam is injected to pump up the chocolate-colored crude oil, a process that has made extraction more expensive than ln Siberia

It was aimed at placing a total han on cutches of fin whales whose stocks are reported to be drastically below the sustainable yield. Fin whales account for more than half of Japan's annual whale

Turkey Said Set To Reseed Poppy

ISTANBUL, June 26 (UPI).— Turkey will restart growing the opium poppy this fall, an influential Istanbul daily said today. A government resolution authorizing optum poppy culti-vation in Turkey will go into effect before July, the Istanbul newspaper Cumhuriyet said. Cultivation was banned in 1971,

The United States bad urged Turkey to ban optum poppy cul-tivation on grounds that most of the heroin consumed by American addicts was being derived from Turkiah poppies.

Turkey's five-month-old coalition government, headed by Premier Bulent Ecevit, reversed the ban, claiming it an "irreparable loss" for the peasants of poppy growing provinces. Mr. Ecevit als promised stringent measures to prevent the poppy finding its way into the hands of narcotics pushers.

talks in Brussels.
Flights for the queen, Prince Edward and Princess Margarct. scheduled to leave from Heathrow today, were canceled, the British airport Authority said.

By 3:30 p.m., hundreds of soldiers and armed policemen were waiting in the No. 3 long distance terminal. A top-ranking army officer said that this was "the biggest mul-tary operation carried out in Briain since the war." Troops xill be heavily armed and a number of regiments are involved in the operation, he added, London newspapers said the military occupation was mounted because of intelligence reports from the Middle East that Israeli, American and Dutch sireraft operating from Heathrow were targeted for guerrilla attacks. The troops, mostly members of the Blues and Royals Armored Regiment, rolled into Heathrow about 2 p.m. and some went to work putting up tents.

"We have been told to say nothing about this," an army. sergeant said. "I can't even tell you what these tents are for. We are not sure ourselves what we,

The nation's 17 million members of farm workers unions have been ordered to walk out all day tomorrow. Several more millions of industrial workers will hold four-hour stoppages tomorrow.

The farmers who paraded with their tractors across central Rome, from the Colosseum to Piazza Navona, were demanding measures to overcome the present crisis in Italy's agriculture, caused by archaic farm structures and methods at home and aggressive competition from abroad.

The workers strike is for a nationwide work contract with higher pay and a guaranteed minimum income. The stoppages in industry are ostensibly in support the agricultural workers.

Spokesmen for organized labor, however, are making it plam that the workers actually are demonstrating against the gov-ernment on the ground that it squeezing wage-earners and hardly touching the rich.
The Metal Workers Federa-

Mon, which groups Communists non-Communists in one of the most militant segments of the trade-union movement stated earlier this week that tomorrows walkouts were meant as "the first move of a general mobilization" of labor against the government's austerity program.

The Construction Workers' Federatioo has called its menibers to protest against the credit curbs that are a part of the government's austerity package, warning that the measures to restrict borrowing from banks soon produce 200.000 a omq jobless men in the public-works sector alone.

The coalition cabinet of Premier Mariano Rumor all but fell apart earlier this month in squabbles over how to bring Italy back from the brink of national bankrupicy. Elements in the present emergency are a widening gap between imports and exports; a continuous heavy lira outflow, inflation at the annual rate of 20 percent at home, forelgn indebtedness of many billions of dollars and difficulties in raising new international

Labor critics noted that the proposed package would weigh most heavily on workers and of détente with the Soviet Union; but it began fittingly with a summit meeting of the NATO allies, the first in 17 years.

The signing of the Atlantic declaration in Brussels yesterday was more than a symbolic event. It put the approval of chiefs of government on a lasting re-commitment to Western unity in the 25th anniversary year of history's most successful neacetime alliance.

The task of managing the increasing interdependence of the United States and a uniting West Europe in the last quarter of the 20th century is just begining and it will require new attitudes and new institutions which are still only vaguely seen. The intensive dialogue of the last 14 months, set off by Henry Kissinger's April 1973 "Atlantic Charter" speech, undoubtedly will resume when the secretary of state visits the main Western capitals en route home from Mos-

Meanwhile, what is most urgent is to consolidate the East-West accommodation during Nixon's week-long talks with Leonid Brezhnev. The President's discussions with other Western leaders were an essential preliminary. Nixon's volce in Moscow will be strengthened by allied support. Allieo concerns about "superpower condominium" should be significantly eased.

The three-fold purpose of the Moscow meeting, as summarized by Secretary Kissinger, is to maintain a dialogue on world events, to further contain the danger of nuclear confrontation and to continue the process of building peace through a "web of interests" between the Soviet Union and the MIRV multiple warhead missiles are at the core of the two projected negotiations at Moscow on nuclear wespons, one for a limited underground nuclear test-ben and the other for a step forward in the second round of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT-2).

The SALT discussions will center on

President Nixon's eight-day journey to Brezhnev's March proposal to extend the Brussels and Moscow focuses on the future 1972 five-year interim agreement on offensive missiles, meanwhile limiting to an agreed number — which Washington considered much too high—the replacement of existing Soviet launchers by new, more powerful MIRV missiles. President Nixon is willing to accept the Brezhnev concept if the numbers, types, locations and verifiability of the replacement missiles can he agreed on-and held below a level that might give the Soviet Union a first-strike capability against American land-hased missiles.

As to the nuclear test-ban, Brezhnev wants to set a timetable for reaching a total oan on underground explosions. Verification difficulties will limit the initial ban to larger tests, which can be detected without onsite inspections. Even this limited step has valoe, for it can help to head off the development of a new generation of more accurate and more powerful MIRV warheads that could create fear that the other side was achieving a first-strike capability.

The Moscow cummit will also see a discussion of the Middle East and European proclems. There will probably be agreements on transport, urhan development, agriculture and medical cooperation, as well as a framework treaty on commerce and friendship. none of which will be spectacular. Real headway on trade and credits depends on an administration compromise with Congress, affected not only by the emigration issoe but by doubts about the future of détente stemming from the Mideast war and Russia's missile build-up.

It is precisely these doubts and the need to keep the momentum of detente going that lends importance to this third annual summit meeting of the world's two most powerful nations. It is a meeting that is less likely to achieve spectacular new progress than to consolidate the relationship that has thus far been achieved. It will, in effect, be more or less a routine encounter. # Mocking the Dead

Last year, when the authorities in Kharfour captured eight "Black September" gunmen who had tortured and killed a Belgian and two U.S. diplomats, the Sudanese government condemned the outrage and promised to bring the criminals to justice. The Sudanese foreign minister called the brutal killings "a criminal act" to be prosecuted and punished. Sudan's President Numeiri himself denotinced the barbarous deed on tele-

The civilized world reacted with relief and admiration when it appeared that Khartoum stood ready to defy Arab pressure to release the murderers. That estimate of President Numeiri's toughness was, unfortunately, exaggerated. The President has now sacrificed justice to expediency. Although a Sudanese court sentenced the eight murderers to life imprisonment, President Numeiri decided to turn the killers over to the Palestine Libera- and pitacy. tion Organization.

Making a mockery of justice as well as of the victims' memory. Gen. Numeiri engaged in the charade of first commuting the sentences to seven years in prison and then assigning supervision of the sentence to the Palestinians -an act equivalent to releasing a gangland killer to the custody of his own Matioso family.

Khartoum thus has joined the dishenot roll of countries which, by surrender to Atab pressures, have made themselves accomplices in the spread or international terrorism. In the end, these cowardly officials will increasingly expose their own governments and people to the danger of unpredictable slaughter. #### A Patched Umbrella

NATO... the word has a duli and dated ring to it. For most Europeans today... the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is a remote, almost irrelevant, defense concept whose origins are entomhed in the musty memoirs of dead generals and politicians. Yet this body has helped to guarantee for the free people of Western Europe a sustained period of peace and prosperity unknown to any other generation this war-ravaged century ... we take NATO for granted at our peril... The Warsaw Pact is held together by force; NATO by common interest. That is why it would he both stupid and shortsighted to dismiss Wednesday's meeting of NATO leaders in Brussels as just another Nixonian gimmick... NATO is an alliance stitched by political compromise and contrivance. Better a patcheo umbrella than no protection at all.

Congressional Leaders Not Asked to Help

By James Reston

WASHINGTON. - One of the misfortunes of President Nixon's present mission to Moscow is that he did not take along some of the leaders of Congress, whose understanding of the complex issues of military arms control is vital to congressional approval of whatever agreements are reached there. After all, the Congress has to vote the funds to support whatever strategic arrangements are made with the Soviets, but while Sen. Pritz Mondale of Minnesota has suggested, and the Republican and Democratic leaders of the Senate-Scott of Pennsylvania and Mansfield of Montana-have approved adding congressional observers to toe U.S. delegation, nothing has been done about it,

In another critical time in U.S .-Sories relations, near the end of the last World War, and the beginning of the post-war period, President Truman said he would rather edocate the Senate than fight it, and he took a chance on cooperation between the executive and legislative branches of the government.

He had before him the tragedy of the League of Nations under Woodrow Wilson, when the Seoate and the White House fell out and defeated U.S. participation in the world organization at Geneva. Roosevelt had seen the problem just before he died and insisted, with the help of Tom Dewey and John Foster Dulles, that the parties must work together, even during the presi-dential election hattles of 1944. ier the creation of the United

Non-Partisan

Accordingly, executive and legislative branches worked for a national and non-partisan soluion to this problem of negotiating the peace treaties, and cooper-ating for the establishment of a world peace organization.

The leaders of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Tom Connally, Democrat of Texas, and Arthur Vandenberg, Republican of Michigan, were part of the administration's negotiating team at the formation of the United Nations at San Francisco, and then the Republicans took conand the House and the Strate in the election of 1946. Atthur Vandenberg was a key figure in the Democratic adminiscrition's negotiations of the World War II peace treaties.

Vandenberg started as an isoletionist, and a fierce opponent of the Russians, but once he was prought into the negotiations and had to deal with the facts and realities, he became a decisive force for a men-partisan foreign policy and for collective security and the UN and the reconstruction of Europe and the Atlantic

It is odd that Richard Nixon, who went through this whole bi-parties foreign policy experience with Vancenberg and Dulles but was cooverted to collective security and accommodation with the Russians much later, has not seen the advantages of this cooperative spirit in the present negotiations.

Sympathetic

The Senate leaders, Mansfield and Scott, are much more sympatnetic to Nixon's strategic arms policies than most members of Cougress. Even the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, J. William Pubright Arkansas, and the chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Thomas Morgan of Pennsylvania, are much closer to Nixon's strategic arms policy now than Vandenberg and Counally were to Truman's policies at the end of the last World War. In fact, Secretary of State Kissinger has been saying that, despite all the talk of impeachment in Washington, there is continuity in American foreign policy pre-cisely because he finally has support for what he has been trying to do in this Congress—probably more support there, despite the noisy protests of Scoop Jackson, than he has from the Pentagon and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Nixon however, seems determined to go it alone. The more he needs help, the more he seems to reject it. The more he is out of touch with the spirit of the Congress or even the courts, the more he seems to defy them.

Staggering

And even within his own official family in the executive branch, he has not resolved the conflicts between Secretary of State Kissinger, Secretary of Detense Schlesinger, and the Joint Chiefs of Staff on the basic questions to be resolved in Moscow over the testing of nuclear weapons and at what level, the weapons to be used on what targets, and the political and military objectives and priorities that are critical to effective arms control.

"The United States created this monster and now the rest of us must find a way of coping with it," a Peruvian official recently told a visiting American. Many Peruvians believe that Brazil is obsessed with the notion that it must somehow stretch out to the Pacific, as the United States did, before it will gain recognition as a world power.

Peru fears specifically that Brazil will mobilise its political and economic might behind Ballvia's goal of regaining-perhaps at Peru's expense—the corridor to the sea that Bolivia lost to Chile in the War of the Pacific (1879-83)

Fears Magnified

These fears were magnified by the coming to power in Chile of a rightwing military dictatorship, determined to forge close ties with Brazil's military rulers, and by the subsequent meeting, oo Brazil's initiative, of the presidents of Chile and Bolivia, which have not had diplomatic relations for 12 years,

Concern about Brazil's expanding power was one of the unstated reasons behind the formation of the Andean common market in 1969. It was doubtless a factor in persuading oil-rich Venezuela to join the Andean pact last year, giving the six-nation grouping a larger market than that of Brazil. It is now a high foreign policy priority for Peru, and perhaps for other members, to bring Argentina into a close association with the Andean pact, if not yet into full-fledged affiliation. Though it may be clothed in more polite words, the message to Argentina is a stark one, along these lines: "You lost out long ago in the hilateral contest with Brazil for the leadership of South America, The only way you can now exert effective leadership is to become an 'Andean nation,' casting your lot with us and helping to build a formidable economic and political counterweight to Brazil,"

If the strategy works, it will not be presented as an anti-Brazil maneuver, of course, but simply as part of a great effort to advance economic integration and political cohesion in South America. Fear of Brazilian begemony nonetheless have been a entalytic factor.

It would be difficult for the proud Argentines to concede in effect that they can no longer offer by themselves an alternative continental leadership to that of Brazil; yet, the wiser ones among them know that this is the

One of the revealing statistics bearing on the change in the historic Argentine-Brazilian rivalry is this: Forty years ago, Argentina's gross national product accounted in value for half the total of all South America; today, Argentina's CENP is worth only half that of Brazil,

Paraguay historically looked to Argentina for support against Brazil Lest month, Brazil's new president, Gen. Ernesto Geisel, traveled to the Paraguayan border to conclude with President Alfredo Stroessner an agreement for constructing the world's largest hydroelectric project, on the Parana River at Itaipu

A few days later, Geisel went to Bolivia to sign an agreement with President Hugo Banzer for building a $600-million pipeline to carry 240,000 cubic feet of Bolivian natural gas a day nearly a thousand miles to Sao Paulo. Brazil will also build a steel mill, cement factory and petrochemical plant in Bolivia

For Brazil these agreements represent not only good business but badly needed help for two struggling neighbors. It pains Brazil when other neighbors it has common borders with all South American countries except Ecuador and Chile regard the projects as a blow at Argentine influence or an attempt to wean Bolivia from the Andean pact. # WINE: The Most Vexing Problem in a Chinese Restaurant

By Jon Winroth

ARIS, June 25 (IHT).-The most vexing problem of choice a Chinese restaurant is not hat to eat but what to drink th the food.

from on the menu. In at least one Chinese restaurant, the problem has been solved with a wine list that would do honor to any three-star French establishment. Nearly 200 wines, most of them grower's wines, are listed at Tan-Dinh, and what wines at what prices.

The place is tiny, 24 seats in all, but it serves very good and very fresh Chinese and Vietnamese food, prepared by the mother of the two young Vietnamese who built up the extraordinary cellar.

Bob and Freddy Vifian came to Paris from Saigon in 1968, They are real wine enthusiasts and their buying trips into Burgundy have blazed a trail of slightly as yet to the growing Oriental interest in French amc.

The Vifian brothers have outstanding palates, the only reasonable explanation for such a wine list in so small and little known a restaurant as theirs. Furthermore, their prices are low, often as little or scarcely more than you would pay for the same wine in a retail store. In most restaurants wines go for at least double the retail price.

Asked about this, Bob Vifian replied. "We only have about a case of each wine, except for the more popular ones. If nobody erer orders our Chambertin. It doesn't really matter. We can always drink it ourselves."

The House of Dior Plans Major Reorganization

By Hobe Dorsey

DAFIE June 26 (IHT) - The count ready-to-wear is a very Hour of Dier L unadigotte major changes its pirector Jacmuce Rough sain today.

As of next fall all collections will be designed by Mare Boltan. who until now has been in charge of the contine and the boundque collections-the latter is the small almost private collection that is old only in Paris at the Diot lashien house

Mr. Bohan will take over the trady-to-year collection (known as "Mass Diot") which had been aesigned by Pichope Gurbourge separates line with the assistance of M: Guihousge who formerly supervised if The for collection will remain in the hands of Meedone Castet

Dict also plans to open a pobtions tiens fall on Bur Berry d'Angla, un a onetime lur chiga between Landin and the Holel Crition that more which may sound as purely technical, has important overlones. It means, not that Mr. Guibourge's Miss Dior was immucessful-Mr. Rouel maisted on that-but that the house needs to concentrate all ne production under one single, strong name. It also means that couture is becoming second in importance to ready-to-wear. In tournalistic terms, it could be said that couture now rates the inside page. while icaox-ig-aran to tront-page nexall and has to be hannled as

Mr. Ronel still believes altoug-In that conture has a future, "We have a large private chenicle quite a few buyers and we do outleness with foreign countries in elling paper patterns," but he admitted that it a a dwindbag business Figures for 1973 were $3 million for couture and $10 millinn for ready-to-wear. As readyto-wear keeps expanding, it is understandable that Dior wants to give it the maximum backing. New Line

The new Dior ready-to-wear line non the called "Mist Dior." Mi Rouet -aid, because the name suggested a very young, almost tumor age group "which, in all fairness is not out chentele. It might be called "Christian Dior - Bouilque', and the prestige, as well as the prices will be jacked up-trom $200 to $700.

The other reason for airength-

COLOGNE, June 26 (AP-DJ). -West German authorities ordered Bankhaus L D. Herstatt into liquidation today after they discovered that the widely respect-ed private bank suffered severe losses in foreign exchange trad-

The Bundesbank and the federal supervisory banking bureau said their talks with the main shareholder of the bank, insur-ance magnate Hans Gerling, and three biggest commercial banks in Germany established there was no chance of saving

The Bundesbank said Herstatt, one of the nation's largest private banks with a balance sheet total at the end of 1973 of 2.078 billion deutsche marks, had taken sharp losses in foreign currency dealings that had been misrepresented in its books.

Carli Urges U.S. to Become 'Lender of Last Resort'

MILAN, June 26 (IHT).-A proposal that the United States should become international "lender of last resort," and in effect banker to the world, was

Mr. Carli's suggestion would place the Federal Reserve System, or, as one U.S. official noted, the Treasury, squarely at the center of any operation to rescue certain countries-including Italy -from the disastrous effects of quadrupling of oil prices.

The oil price increases have brought about an unprecedented shift in international currency · resources, producing an estimated $60 billion to $70 billion in earnings for the oil producing countries and drawing an equal amount from the treasuries of nations that import oil:

Italy itself faces an insurmountable deficit in its balance of payments which, at the latest - official Italian estimate, will total $11 billion this year, placing the country in danger of total bank-

Mr. Carli was obviously thinking first and foremost of his country's predicament when he made his proposal today before an international gathering of economic experts called together for a conference on inflation by Banca Commerciale Italiana, the nation's second-largest bank.

The governor of the central bank made a strong plea for international coordination to nvercome the economic instability caused by the shift in monetary

He pointed out that the oil producing countries are accumulating huge amounts of dollars, most of which they cannot They are therefore investing their new-found wealth, and most of that investment is flowing into short-term U.S. Treasury bills.

The United States will bave to recycle these funds, Mr. Carli indicated, providing cash to the rountries with payments deficits. If this happens, the bank governor indicated, the Federal Reserve should become lender of last resort if a liquidity crisis occurred or if any one country should default on its borrowings. In other words, the United States would stand as ultimate guaran-

Israel Floats $300 Million Loan With U.S. Guarantee

U. S. officials here agreed that if the Carli proposal were adopted, the dollar itself would emerge strengthened. After the crisis of confidence in the dollar caused by the severance of its link to gold and its two devaluations, the U.S. currency would stand at dead center of intermational currency operations and Washington would be pledged to act internationally in time of monetary crisis.

The new securities—unrelated to the semi-charitable Israeli bonds sold for general fund-raising in the Jewish community—are to raise money for military procurement. To avoid confusion, Israel is calling the new issue a "note" rather than a bond offering, although the issue has a long maturity of 30 years. The U.S. government guarantee is believed to be the first for an offering made here by a foreign country, although Israel and other countries have gotten shorter term, government-guar-anteed loans from U.S. commercial

The guarantee not only effectively assures full payment on the notes but also allows their sale at rates competitive with new domestic offerings, Normally, foreign governments must pay a percentage point or more above what domestic borrowers pay. Israeli officials here say the country decided to go to Loeb, Rhoades for a private placement because it would otherwise have to pay the much higher lending rates being charged by the commercial banks here with which it has worked in the past. Other sources add that some commercial banks balked at extending the $300 million to Israel because many are currently courting business with Arab countries, and the funds Israel is seeking are earmarked for military purposes. Israel is eligible for guarantees under both the Foreign Military Sales Act and the Defense Aplin National Bank of New York, also have reported big losses in foreign currency dealings.

The immediate consequences of Herstatt a demise on individual depositors and other creditors were not known. A spokesman for the Federal Association of Banks, a trade group embracing most German banks, said it has a fund of 20 million DM to protect small depositors in the event of a collapse and that the fund was to have been raised shortly to 30 million DM.

The spokesman said that tha amount of compensation due depositors probably will be much higher than 38 million DM however, and that an effort will be made to increase the fund nn an emergency basis to cover depositors' losses.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

Estel Forecasts Record Profit

Continuing high demand for steel in Western Europe will push profit, sales and production figures of Estei N.V., the West German-Dutch steel combine, to new highs this year, saya B.A. Bijl, finance director. Last year the company. which was formed from the Dutch Hoogovens and the German Hoesch, had net profit of 169.3 million guilders ($65.3 million), up 94 percent on 1972 results. Mr. Bijl notes that there is no 'sign of slackening' in the steel market, and Estel's plants are operating at full capacity everywhere. The only weak spot in the market is for cold rolled sheet steel hecause "auto builders are using less" and "everyone was building cold rolled plants three years ago." But he adds that Estel could sell more steel if it had the plant capacity. Difficulties in obtaining cold rolled plants three years ago." usual supplies of coking coal from the United States have caused problems, but have not held back production, which is currently running at an annual rate of 12.4 million tons.

U.S. Agency May Order Auto Recall The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) may order four auto-makers to recall as many as 1.4 million 1972-model cars to correct their emission-control systems. The companies are General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and Volkswagen of America. However, the EPA will not specify which models are involved or identity what it believes their pollution shortcomings are until after a 10-day period allowed for the manufacturers to subnor additional information on the cars' engine performance. Should recall orders ultimately be usued for some or all of the 1.4 million vehicles, it is possible that only a small percentage of owners actually will return their cars to dealers for emission control repairs, an EPA offical concedes. Under the Clean Air Act, the agency has authority over new cars down to the dealers, but it cannot require action by Individuor owners.

U.S. Steel Signs Coal Contract

Carbon Fuel Co. mas signed a contract with s minimum duration of 15 years under which all coal produced from its West Virginia operations will be sold to U.S. Steel Corp., effectire last April 1. Coal from those operations already committed to companies other than U.S. Steel will be delivered to those companies, until such existing contracts expire. The company's West Virginia operations produced about 1.8 million tons of metallurgical coal in 1973 and Carbon Fuel says it plans to increase production to 3 million tons annually by 1977. The company declines to give the value of the contract, but it notes that it includes a loan of $4.5 million repayable in const installments over the 15year term of the contract. Based on Carbon Fuel's projections for increased production and on current coal prices, the total value of the contract could range from $750 million to $900 million over the 15-year period.

Investors Quit Bond. Equity Markets

Rate Rises Distress Borrowers in U.S.

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP-DJ). Disintermediation, a word which came into vogue in the tight-money squeeze of 1966 and has been reappearing with each domestic money crunch ever since, has taken on an ugly new mean-

In most cases it describes the disruption of normal money flows in the economy. A savings bank is an intermediary between the public saver and the mortgage market, for example. When savers pull out or reduce their deposits in fevor of higher-yielding investments, the money is said to be disintermediated. The thrift institution, in other words, is not an intermediary for those funds any longer.

The word still describes that process, but it has taken on what some see as an ugly new meaning, too, in the current period of high demand from business for money and credit.

The institutions being disintermediated, according to Ralph Saul, chalrman of the management committee of First Boston Corp., a major investment banking firm, are the long-term bond and equity markets themselves.

Mr. Saul termed the situation unprecedented in degree since the 1930s. "During the past several months, we have had a situation when some corporations have been foreclosed from using the public securities markets to raise iong-term capital ... Some lowerrated utilities have been almost cut off from these markets, and it has been difficult to market most industrial bond issues except for the highest-quality com-

The problem this time is not the outright availability of financing but its high cost.

"The short-term market or banks, will supply immediate credit needs, but only at the cost of rendering corporations vul-nerable to short-term changes in their nwn fortunes or moneymarket conditions. Institutional investors put cash to work in the short-term market and hold off making commitments to the debt or equity markets.

"In short, we have a slow disintermediation of the debt and equity markets as the major suppliers and users of funds switch their attention to short-term markets," Mr. Saul said.

The whole process has been helped along by "a huge and swelling supply" of short-term deposit, large sums left with banks for a specified period, bas climbed $25 billion in the past year to a record $104 billion, he said, and corporations and bank holding companies have issued a record amount of commercial a source of external funds. Public financing by corporations declined from $39.1 billion in 1971 to $22.7 billion last year. "In the past, corporations have been able to raise, at llyable rates, whatever funds they wanted from the bond market, as much as $25.6 billion in the record year 1971," he said. "But now there are serious quesrions whether they can continue to do so."

Similarly, financing through new stock issues has dropped sharply. Only 99 equity issues were marketed last year, compar-ed with 568 in 1972.

Banks' Prime Rate Seen Climbing to a Record 12% NEW YORK, June 26 (AP-DJ).—Pressures are mounting

quickly for a boost to 12 percent in the U.S. banking industry's prime, or minimum, interest charge on loans to large cor-The pressures are coming chiefly from the rocketing costs

banks are encountering in trying to raise lendable funds through the "sale" of negotiable certificates of neposit (CDs) which represent large deposits left for a specific period of The climb in money costs has been so swift that some banks using formula methods to set their prime rates could raise their base lending fees as early as next week. Currently, most banks' prime rates are still at 11 1/2 percent, although a number of banks this week, including Manufacturers Hanover and Chase todey raised their rates to 11 3/4 percent. First National of Chicago, which does use a formula, posted a record 11.8 percent prime rate on Monday. . In hectic bldding for CD money yesterday, one major New York bank was reported to have paid 11.9 percent on CDs due in 90 days. A large regional bank is said to have paid slightly more than 12 percent,

Much of the demand by banks for CD funds bas been sparked by recent hefty loan demand. But some analysts speculated that et least part of the demand was for "window dressing" purposes. They noted that the hanks' June 30 midyear reporting date is fast approaching. Because of the nervousness in the economy, the analysts reasoned, banks would prefer to show more deposits on their books and smaller amounts of other types of borrowings.

U.K. Offers Firm Partial Take-over

LONDON, June 26 (AP-DJ).--Tha British government proposed today to take ovar the shipbuilding and ship repairing activities financially troubled Court Line Ltd.

The proposal was announced in the House of Commons by Anthony Wedgwood Benn, minister for industry. Involved in the proposed take-over, he said, are 16 companies owned by Court Shipbuilders, a subsidiary of Court Court Line is a diversified en-that the company was in financial difficulty. The company later acknowledged that it had finan-cial problems and said they concerned its laisure division. Lord Beswick, minister of state for industry, told the House of Lords today that he understood

after they tumbled on rumors that Court Line's shipbuilding and sbip repairing operations were profitable. The government's announcement prompted sharp questioning from opposition Conservative legislators in view of the Labour party's declared aim of nationalizing the country's shipbuilding > activities. Addressing Mr. Benn, Michael Heseltine, the Conservative party's spokesman on industrial affairs, said, "You should come clean with us. This is the first example of a squeeze operation and an opportunity you have grabbed to take this company into public and ship repairing industries as well as some other industrial ownership." The reports of new nationalization measures sent share prices down egain on the London Stock Exchange.

The Financial Times index of the leading 30 industrial shares fell 7.2 points to 246, its lowest sector, the Fed came into the level since August 1959.

When did your bank last give you an export order?

If you don't think of banks as a direct source of export orders, maybe it's time you learned more about some of the more specialised activities of the National and Grindlays Bank Group.

You probably know that we specialise in overseas trade. But did you know that the Group includes Gillespies, a leading London confirming house?

And would you be surprised to learn that Gillespies, acting for overseas buyers, places orders for something like £30 million of goods a year - as well as arranging the financing and shipping of them, seeing to the credit-worthiness of the buyers and accepting the invoices?

We could probably tell you some other things you hadn't realised about the Group, too. About the range of merchant and retail banking services we can offer international business, in 33 countries in Europe, the Middle East, Africa, India, Pakistan, Sri Lanka,

Bangludesh, and the Far East. If exports, imports or international business in any form is important to you, you might well find it worthwhile to learn still more about what Grindlays has to offer. Please call us. We'll give you the facts.

Chemical Bank opens a new door to the East.

Through 6.000 years of history Lebanon has been a crossroads of the world. Thanks to this privileged geographical position, Lebanon has served since Phoenician times as a natural link between East and West and a trading post for goods flowing to and from the Middle East. It is today, as it always was, the gateway to a prosperous Middle East, an area which possesses tremendous purchasing power. Beirut, site of countless thriving institutions and international companies, a harbor and free port zone which supply the Arab hinterland, and the busiest airport in the Middle East, is becoming more than ever an important trading center and financial capital. As one of the few free financial centers of the world. Lebanon can rightfully be called the Switzerland of the Middle East.

East and West meet in Beirut.

Chemical Bank, one of the largest banks in the United States and a major force in international banking, has acquired a majority interest in a Lebanese bank and renamed it Chemical Bank (Middle East) S.A.L. The name change signifies that Chemical Bank now has a base for conducting full-service banking in Lebanon and throughout the entire Middle East.

But as near as your telephone.

Chemical Bank (Middle East) S.A. L. has a banking team with experience in both East and West. Project financing, one of the major new financing vehicles of the West, will be a specialty for us in the Middle East. But you don't have to go that far to make use of our capabilities there, because our world-wide network of offices provides that for you. We're in the major money centers of Europe and Asia so the Middle East is no further than a telephone call to the nearest Chemical Bank office.

Our world-wide offices.

LE NŒUD GORDIEN

By Georges Pompidou. Librairie Plon. 205 pp. 25 France

Reviewed by Jonathan C. Randal

AT THE request of his family, d'Administration or Polytechnik the late Georges Pompidous inner thoughts have just been staff the upper establishm published in a slender volume which does little to enhance his image as a major political thinker. Written in the months separating his ouster as the late Charles de Gaulle's prime miuister in July, 1968, and his replacement of the general the foilowing June, these random remarks at best constitute an unfinished symphony.

Per haps understandably, he writes with some bitterness and contempt of the springtime studeot-worker upheaval in 1968 which he failed to foresee and which cost him his job even though he engineered a landslide election victory for the unforgiving De Gaulle.

Throughout the book Pompidou criticizes such well known local failings as the fickleness of the Parisian barricade bourgeois compared to the stolid, virtuous provincials, or the basic ungovern-ability of the French evidenced in their erratic driving.

De Gaulle held much the same views about his fellow country-nien. But his image dealt not with automobiles—one of Pom-pidou's more abiding fixations judging by his determination to push ahead with the controversial Left Bank expressway in Parisbut with the several hundred varieties of French cheese. Thus inevitably the reader is overcome by the suspicion that this effort is a pale copy of the geoeral's majestic writings. Indeed the comparison is not discouraged by the fact that Pompidou's book was printed by Plon, De Gaulle's favorite publisher.

Amateur philosophizing apart, the basic conservatism of Poinpidou emerges, the Gallic log cabin myth personified, the pro-vincial school teacher's son who makes good, gets to the presti-gious Ecole Normale Supérieure, works for De Gaulle, then for the Rothschild bank, before succeeding politically, Titled "The Gordian Knot," an apparent allusion to the need for politicians to cut through indecision and act, the book stands as an ironic commentary on Pompidou's painful final year in of-fice when the cancer that was to kill him turned him into an increasingly besitant ruler.

There's something slightly mel-archolic about his still unanswered call for an end to tax fraudor the beginning of tax reform, for increasing old age benefits for the needy, for assigning a high priority to mass transport.

But there is something downright misleading in Pompidon's professed love for the French Planning Commission, a postwar institution which he purposely allowed to molder. Indeed, there is just enough of De Gaulle's annoying habit of rewriting history to cast doubts on the Pompidou book as well.

"The Republic cannot be the responsibility of engineers, technocrats or even the scholarly." runs one passage. "I maintain that the requirement that the country's leaders should be graduates of the Ecole Nationale

Solution to Previous Puzzle

ancien régime which demand officers have a certain amo of aristocratic blood in th veins." No one would argue such assertion But under Pompic the power of these graduates France's elitist schools continu to grow unchecked. Similarly, Pompidou praises wide freedom of on-the-job dependence he believes Americ workers enjoy in contrast corresponding completely to t of royal power at the end of France where "you have to re to management for the least ht thing." But the Pompidou presider was to see the codification Gaullism's penchant for holdi the French people in a state box ering on contempt as if they we deemed too immature to und stand or participate in decisic affecting their lives. Perhaps the most pathetic pa sage has Pompidou expressing t hope that the French econor accepts "what is called the Ame ican challenge and which is or the challenge of progress." Under his presidency, t French economy far outstripp Britain's and came within pr

jected theoretical shooting di tance of West Germany's, But even that triumph appea ed uncertain in the months ju before and after his death in lig of France's heavy dependence in imported Arab oil which despi his best diplomatic efforts w costing France just as much hitherto less friendly consum That revolution—the end cheap energy—now seems more of a danger to France than the events of the 1968 upheaval whic left Pompidou, in true Gaulli brooding, worrying about a be end for the country. "Fascism is not so improbable he wrote, "It is even, I believ nearer to us than Communis totalitarianism,"

Jonathan C. Randal is the Port correspondent of The Washingto

This was forcing, and he planned to play three no-trump unless South was able to show three-card heart support by bidding three hearts. Since queen—but West produced South's rebid denied four hearts, card to beat the slam by ion always shows exactly three

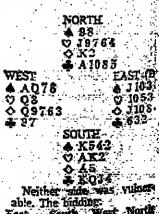

Three hearts should have been South's next move, leading to a final contract of four hearts, but he made a woird leap to five clubs. North calculated correctly that this contract would not be worth many match-points, shrugged his shoulders, and bid six clubs.

Rivelino Hits On Free Kick

HANNOVER, West Germany. uns 26 (Reuters).—Brazil kept live its hopes of successfully efending the World Cup with a 0 victory over East Germany ere tonight in their secondaund Group A match

It took the mighty boot of wily steran Rivelino to chuch an illempered, foul-strewn match for razii. After 61 minutes of play ast German second half substi-te Haraid, Irmscher brought own Jairshinho on the edge of as penalty box straight in front

Rivelino, never one to let such gift go unwasted, bent his free ick through the left of tha elensive wall and with goal-eeper Juergen Croy translixed his line, the ball hurtled bare off the ground into the corner the net.

Brazil, though it lacks the scorig punch it had when master was around in 1970; is still ght on defense as it has now me four games without allowing

Dutch Blank Argentina; Cruyff Stars

GELSENKIRCHEN, West Germany, June 26 - Johan Cruyff cored the Netherlands' first and last goals tonight as he led his Dutchmen to a 4-0 one-sided rout of Argentina.

Throughout the wet night, Cruyff, the finest player in this World Cup, was the architect of the Dutchmen's attack but the whole team looked like a championship prospect. The Netherlands must beat out East Germany, Brazil, and Argentina to win its A Group standings and thus qualify for the finals.

Cruyif's first goal left the Argentine defense at a standstill. Robby Rensenbrink started the move. Wim van Hanegen sent it through to Cruyff and the Dutch captain rolled it cleverly into the empty net. Rund Krol shot the second goal through a crowd of players following a corner by Wim Jansen. The dazzling Cruyff ripped the Argentine defense open again to create the third goal. He floated a beautiful center to the far post and Johnny Rep headed it in-his fourth goal of the tourns-

The Return of the Lob

NIONACO.—I was invited to play in a pro-celebrity tennis tournament in Monaco last week. It was one of the events scheduled to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the reign of Prince Rainier. The reason I was invited is that Prince Rainier was trying to bring the lob back to Monte Carlo. Since this is a tennis stroke that I have become famous for, he insisted I be part of the tour-

For those who do not play tennis, the lob is one Buchwald of the most beautiful and difficult shots in tenhis. The object is to hit the ball gently in the air over the head of the opponent and still keep it in the court. All the world loves a lobber, and wherever tennis is played he is the most talked about person on the court. The lob shot was invented in 1393 by a Polish count named Leopold Lob. Leopold had studied to be a violinist, but when he bet his Stradivarius on black at the afonte Carlo casinn one night, and the ball dropped in a red sint of the roulette wheel. he had no choice but to give up music and become a tennis pro. He played tennis like he played the violin and pretty soon he was hitting the ball bigh in the air, the first time anyone had ever done it. In his honor Prince Rainier's grandfather named the shot "The Lob" or "Le Lob" as it is known in France.

Ey sheer coincidence my grandfather had taken four lessons from Leopold Lob while vacationing one summer in Monaco and brought it back to bis village in what was then the Austro-Hungarian Empire. When my grandfather wasn't being beaten up by Hungarian Cossacks, he practiced the lob, and taught it to my father.

My father brought it to the United States just before World War I. After I was born he took me out to Copey Island every Sunday and made me practice it, Since we were playing on the sandy beach it was actually the only shot you could hit without the ball going dead.)

Prince Rainier had heard about my proficiency at the lob through Princess Grace, who still has relatives in Philadelphia. He explained when I arrived why he was trying to bring the lob back to Monte Carlo.

For years Monaco attracted the best looking and richest lobbers in Europe. But in the fifties they started drifting away other resorts such as St. Tropez, the Italian Riviera, the Costa Brava in Spain and Acapulco in Mexico.

Lobbers, you must understand. are not only great tennis players but they are voracious gamblers as well as big spenders. Ous lubber will spend four times as much nn tennis balls in one day as a backhander will spend in a Lobbers also attract the most beautiful women. For some reason a woman just can't keep ber hands off a man who hits a tennis ball up in the air.

Prince Rainier told me if he could bring back the lob to Monte Cario, he was certain his principality would once again become the most important resort in the world.

The day I accepted the invitation to play in his pro-celebrity tournament, Prince Rainier built a new $10-million casino. He didn't waste his money.

On the first morning of the tournament I drew Garoner Mulloy as my partner. As soon as I got on the court and started to lob Dan Rowan and Dennis Raiston, the word went all the way down the Riviera "Lobbing has come back to Monte Carlo. By afternoon all the roads leading to Monaco were jamiued with millionaire tennis players, Every yacht in the Mediterranean within 300 utiles changed course and returned to the principality. Not since the early days of the century bad Monaco seeu anything like it. Although Mulloy and I were eliminated on the first day, a grateful Prince and Princess prosented me with the first issue of a new Monacan stamp. It was a two-frame air mail stamp with a beautiful etching of Count Leo-pold Lob hitting his first tennis ball high, high in the air.

Evel Knievel's Next Dare

By Dave Anderson

NEW YORK (NYT).—His name. Evel Knievel, would be ecough to make him unique. But he embellishes it. He rides motorcycles, through the air as well as on the ground. He doesn't wear a black leather jacket; his leather jacket is white with red, white and blue stars and stripes. He is 35 years old, handsome, married, with three children and mischief in a smile as dazzling as the diamonds on the fingers.

He walks with a slight limp, the price of his daredevil theatrics. Perhaps as a distraction for his limp, he carries a black walking stick with a diamond-studded removable top. Inside the stick are vials of vodka, scotch, bourbon, gin and rye. The other day, he was swinging the walking stick as he strode into the Belvedere Suite of the Rainbow Room at the RCA Building, in a white suit, floppy-collared red shirt and red shoes. He was there to receive a check for $6 million, his guarantee for his Sent. 8 attempt to soar across the mile-wide Snake River Canyon near Twin Falls, Idaho, in his Sky Cycle X-2, a steam-powered vehicle that resembles a miniature jet fighter without wings.

"The guarantee is against 60 percent of all receipts," aunounced Bob Arum of Top Rank, Inc., the closed-circuit TV firm. "We won't be happy unless it goes to 10 or 12 million."

Obvious Attraction

The attraction is obvious. Evel Knievel might die. He's aware of that. He's even calling bis whirlwind premotional tour of 39 cities in 12 days the "Evel Knievel Says Good-Bye Tour," but be's quick to add that he's retiring after the Snake River Canyon jump, if he's alive.

"I'd say 5 percent of the people want to see me die," he said. "Forty-five per-cent don't want to see me die but want to be there if I do and 50 percent are pulling for me."

His attempt looms as this year's happening, a Woodstock of wheels, perhaps 200,000 people descending on Twin Falls. not too far above the Nevada-Utan border.

"Whatever I get out of this thing," he said, "be it win, lose and no draw, can't be no draw. I deserve it, because I've paid the price for success. If I miss it, I'll just get somewhere quicker where you're all coing someday, and Ill wait for you. Because dying is part of living. None of us are going to get out of here alive."

Daredevils are always thought to have a deathwisb. Perhaps he does. But he sounded like somebody with a lifewish.

"I'll be a winner." he said. "I'll live like nobody else yon've ever seen live. Lots of people who have a lot of dough like to put it in banks. I like to spend it. I figure if God wanted me to hang onto it, he'd have put handles on it."

Scientific Adviser

His scientific adviser is Robert Trusz. once of the Apollo space program.

"Bob Truex says my chances are 50-50 if," he said. "One, if the vehicle does not blow up on the launch ramp; two, if it goes straight up in the air and does not flip over backwards and come back into the crowd: three if it goes 2,000 feet up at 350 miles an hour and goes across the canyon; four, if the parachute systems open; five. if, when they open, I come down on the other side and can stand the G forces; and aix, if I can get out of the vehicle."

His original plan was to jump the Grand Canjon, an inspiration hetween drinks one night in Moose's Place in Kalispell, Mont.

"There was a picture of the Grand Canyon on the wall," he recalled, "and the drunker I got, the better that canyon

He received permission in 1966 from Stewart Udall, then the secretary of the interior, but Mr. Udall later withdrew his

"Something about public land shouldn't be used, he was saying now, "so I switched to the Snake River Canyon and I leased acres from a farmer to set up my site. It's cost me about $1.3 million-$37,000 for the land, $187,000 to build the ramp, $50,000 to build a road in there, $30,000 for a chain-link fence to keep people from falling into the canyon, $100,000 for concessions and latrines, $50,000 for prizes in motorcycle races there, $500,000 for the development of the Sky Cycle and $300,000

Evel Knievel in action.

He was born Robert Craig Knievel in Butte, Mont, where he still lives, but he was nicknamed Evil as a youngster.

"That's because," he said, smiling, "I was such a good little boy. I later changed the spelling. I was even in tail once with a guy named Awful Knofel, for stealing hubcapa. My first motorcycle, I stole it, a 125-Harley Davidson, and rode it around until it ran out of gas. I was 13 then. When we moved to El Sabrante, Calif., near Oakland, I bought a BSA-125 when I was 16 but my grandmother bought me my first motorcycle, a Triumph for $300, when I was about 18."

When he was 8 he had seen a daredevil show in Butte, Mont., in which Joey Chitwood, a stunt driver, jumped a car over another car.

"I came home, took one garage door off, put it on a can to make a ramp, got my buycle and jumped," he said. "My younger brother Nick got some dried babies' breath (a flower) and lit it, and I jumped that. Then we took off the other garage door. and I tried to jump across the babies breath to it but I hit it head on. To make it worse, the babies' breath burned up the

Now he'll be jumping across a canyon that plummets 1,000 feet deep into the

"I don't know if I'm an athlete, daredevil, a promoter, a hoax or just a nut," he said. "But when I make that jump, I'll be competing against the toughest op-ponent of all. And that's death."

PEOPLE: Liz and Dick Divorce: 'Completely Finished'

Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton were divorced Wednesday without fuss or tears and with a pledge that they will remain friends. The 10-year-old marriage was dissolved in 45 minutes in a courtroom in Saanen, Switzer-

Miss Taylor, wearing a simple brown and white dress and looking tense, sat on one of the public benches as she heard Judge Johann Friedli declare the marriage over "on the grounds of irreconcilable differences." Burton sent a medical certificate explaining that he was too ill to travel from New York for the proceedings.

The couple separated last July and Miss Taylor announced that "maybe we have loved each other too much." There was an attempted reconciliation earlier this year but it broke down when Burton was in California making a film.

He made headlines when an 18year-old waitress, Kim Dinucci, revealed that the actor had bought her a $450 ruby-anddiamond ring. Miss Dinucci denied that there was any romance with Burton, saying that he had hought her the ring because she reminded him of his danghter.

The Burtons' lawyer, friend and adviser, Aaron Fresch of New York, said there was an amicable financial arrangement. Few de-tails were available, but Frosch said that "Mrs. Burton retains all the items she owned prior to and during the marriage, including the jewels." The Taylor-Burton fortune is estimated at more than $25 million.

The Burtons' adopted daughter, Maria, 11, will remain with Miss Taylor but "very liberal" visiting rights have been granted to Burton. The actress also requested that Burton be given the right to visit her other children.

It was Miss Taylor's fifth marriage and Burton's second. After the proceedings, Miss Taylor's personal secretary, Raymond Vignale, said that there is no question of a further reconciliation. "It is completely finished. The divorce is final," he said.

Betty Hutton, the blonde bombshell, was back in the spotlight in New York this week and told her audience, "I love you, I love you." But Miss Hutton, who has been working as the housekeeper-
